Edward Elgar

Edward Elgar was born 2 June 1857, near Worcester in England. His father was a music dealer, and he was able to teach himself the history of music, which complemented his music lessons in the piano and violin.

He became a noted local violinist, playing in the Worcester and Birmingham festivals. Playing in a wind quarter he began arranging the music of Mozart, Beethoven and Handel; he gained a strong musical reputation within the local area, but it was not enough to make a comfortable living.

Elgar was introverted, and conscious of his 'outsider' background. He was Catholic and relatively poor, and so was outside the more established social background of British society. He was a keen cyclist and would enjoy cycling on his own into the countryside of Worcestershire. Elgar said that his trips into nature inspired much of his music.

In 1880, he began his first trips abroad, coming across the music of Richard Wagner. However, in this early period, Elgar's hope for widespread acclaim and fortune were not met. In 1889, he married Alice Roberts, daughter of a Major-General in the army. She was older and from a higher social class. Her support both musically, emotional and financially played a significant role in nurturing the career of Elgar.

In 1899, at the age of 42, Elgar finally achieved a big musical breakthrough, with his first major orchestral work, the Enigma Variations. It was received to great critical acclaim and established Elgar as the pre-eminent composer of his generation.

He also branched out into choral works, and his – The Dream of Gerontius is regarded as one of the greatest English choral pieces of all time. Elgar achieved even greater national recognition for his later Pomp and Circumstance Marches, which he composed between 1901 and 1930.

Elgar died on 23 February 1934.

Five Renowned Baroque Composers

The Baroque period lasted for 150 years, from 1600 to 1750 AD. It is a particularly famous time in classical music that saw the rise of some of the greatest classical composers. The Baroque composers introduced tonality to music, as well as establishing major music styles such as opera and concerto. This time period saw the rise of grand orchestras, as well as the introduction of many new instruments. If you are interested in the Baroque period, then you need to be familiar with its most famous composers.

Henry Purcell

Henry Purcell is famous for creating a unique English style of Baroque. This style incorporated Italian and French influences and placed special emphasis on how words were used. Purcell is most remembered for his opera works; his masterpiece is King Arthur, or The British Worthy. This piece is a five act semi-opera and was first performed in 1691 at Queen's Theatre.

Music-Making Methods

Any device that is made to produce a musical sound is a musical instrument. This includes everything from a simple rubber band strung between two nails to the most complex electronic synthesizer. There are thousands of different kinds of musical instruments. For convenience, they are sometimes divided into percussion, stringed, keyboard, wind, and electronic instruments.

Percussion instruments make music when somebody strikes, shakes, or scrapes them. Drums, rattles, and bells are percussion instruments. Guitars, violins, harps, and sitars are all stringed instruments. They are plucked, played with a bow, or strummed to produce music.

On keyboard instruments, notes are played by pressing keys, pushing buttons, or flipping levers. Pianos, organs, and accordions are keyboard instruments.

You can probably guess how wind instruments work. They're played by blowing air to produce notes. Some examples are flutes, saxophones, bagpipes, trumpets, and clarinets.

Until recently, all music had to be sung or played in person. In the 18th century, people began to find ways to play music automatically. They created musical clocks, player pianos, and music boxes. With the help of water power, clockwork, and steam, these instruments made music without needing people to play them.

In the late 1800s, the earliest recording devices were invented. These allowed people to make copies of musical performances.

After the mid-20th century, inventors began to create electronic versions of some older instruments, such as guitars and pianos. They also built electronic instruments that made music in whole new ways. These instruments were called "synthesizers" because they artificially made, or synthesized, music. Most recently, the computer has become another electronic device to be used as an instrument. (From Encyclopedia Britannica)

A Company of Players

The orchestra at my school was busy practicing. I had brought my younger brother, Jeff, to watch. Jeff had never seen an orchestra before.

"Which person is the orchestra?" he asked me.

I smiled and said, "Why don't you ask them?"

Jeff went up to a boy with a big fat brass tuba in his arms.

"Are you the orchestra?" Jeff asked.

"No," the boy answered. He put his mouth to the mouthpiece, blew into it, and played a few loud notes.

"That sounds like a truck's horn!" Jeff said.

He went to a girl who held a cello between her knees. It looked like a large violin.

"Are you the orchestra?" he asked.

She shook her head and drew a bow across the strings.
“That sounds like grandfather’s humming,” said Jeff.
Next he came to a boy standing behind two giant pots.
“Are those pots the orchestra?” he asked.
“No. They’re kettledrums,” the boy said. He thumped two booming notes with a pair of mallets.
Behind him Jeff heard a “tap-tap-tap.”
He turned around to see a woman tapping a long thin stick on a music stand. Everyone became very quiet.
“That’s the conductor,” the drummer whispered. “And that stick is her baton. She tells us how to play.”
The players all watched as the conductor’s arms began to move slowly up and down. The musicians began to play, and music filled the room. Jeff smiled.
I could tell what he was thinking. Now he knew who the orchestra was. They all were. The conductor and all the musicians with all their instruments together made the orchestra.

John Constable

John Constable (1776-1837) was famous for his watercolours and paintings of the British landscape.

John Constable was born in Suffolk where he spent most of his life. His most famous paintings were of the area around Dedham Vale where he lived. John Constable believed the greatest art came from using the inspiration of nature, rather than using various techniques and imagination to impose oneself on art.

“When I sit down to make a sketch from nature, the first thing I try to do is to forget that I have ever seen a picture”

– John Constable

In his lifetime, John Constable never achieved great financial success. His fame only grew after his death. He is now one of the most famous and well known British painters.

Art of John Constable

His style is reminiscent of the Classic Masters, but also the increasingly developed a free style, which gave an added impressionistic feel to his paintings. For example, Stonehenge gives a mythical impression of this timeless English monument.

(Pettinger, Tejvan. “Biography of John Constable”, Oxford, 2009)

David Hockney

Born in Yorkshire, David Hockney became one of Britain’s most celebrated artists. He became seen as a leading figure of the ‘pop art’ movement – though it was a title he was not keen on.

«What an artist is trying to do for people is bring them closer to something, because of course art is about sharing: you wouldn’t be an artist if you didn’t want to share an experience, a thought»

– David Hockney

From an early age he had a desire to be an artist. At the age of 11 he won a scholarship to Bradford Grammar school. In the first year he purposefully came last in the form so that he would be able to study art.

At the age of 16, he was able to leave and devote himself to art. He studied at the Bradford School of Art for three years. Within a short space of time he gained a reputation as an innovative and talented artist.

Many of his works are autobiographical in nature. They are reflective and often abstract, quite different in style to the realist painters of the Old Masters.

John Turner

Joseph Mallord William Turner (23 April 1775 – 19 December 1851) was an English Romantic landscape painter, watercolorist and printmaker.

John Turner was born in Covent Garden, London in 1775. Due to his mother's mental illness he was sent to live with an uncle in Brentford. After displaying aptitude for art, he entered the Royal Academy of Art school in 1789, when he was only 14 years old. He soon developed a reputation as a talented artist, and he was able to travel around the major artistic centres of Europe learning more about art.

Turner helped elevate landscape painting and is often seen as Romantic painter who helped influence the new movement of Impressionism. Along with John Constable, he is considered one of the finest British artists of all time.

Turner loved to paint landscapes and nature. He was particularly fascinated with the extremes of nature such as violent storms. An apocryphal tale suggests Turner tied himself to the mast of a ship during a storm so he could witness the buffeting of nature.

(Pettinger, Tejvan. "Biography of John Turner", Oxford, 2009)

Characters Parts

To a great extent the actor builds up his part from observation. As he goes about his daily occupations he is consciously or subconsciously finding models from everyday life. He will study the characteristics and mannerisms of the people with whom he comes into contact; he will watch people in the street, in trains and buses, in shops, at public gatherings, he will notice the way they walk, the movements of head and hands, how they speak, the sound of their voices, the expression on their faces, both permanent and momentary, he will take this peculiarity from one person and that from another—anything that may help him to give individuality to the character he is to play. Not only will he seek to imitate and reproduce superficial and physical characteristics, but he will try to get inside the minds of his models and understand their thoughts and the circumstances which make them behave the way they do. He will exercise all his sympathy and intuition in this, and, with the aid of his imagination will build up a complex character that is utterly different from his own. If possible, he will observe people's reaction in emotion, fear, excitement, disappointment, joy, or sorrow, and notice particularly how their voice and movements are affected.

James Hugh Calum Laurie

James Hugh Calum Laurie was born on June 11, 1959, in Oxford, England. Laurie's father, William "Ran" Laurie, was a medical doctor and Olympic gold medalist in rowing. His mother, Patricia Laurie, was a writer whose occasional essays were published by The London Times. The youngest of the family, Laurie has two older sisters and an older brother.

While in his last year at Eton, Laurie briefly toyed with the idea of becoming a member of the medical profession, like his father. Instead, the young man entered Selwyn College, Cambridge, in 1978 with the sole intention of rowing. He majored in anthropology and archaeology, but Hugh was never truly interested in either subject, claiming "anthropology was the most convenient subject to read while spending eight hours a day on the river."

But Laurie's rowing career came to a sudden halt his freshman year, when a serious case of mono kept him off the team. To keep himself busy, he auditioned for Footlights, the university's world-renowned dramatic society, known for launching the careers of such famous alumni as John Cleese, Douglas Adams and Sacha Baron Cohen. The decision would change Hugh Laurie's life forever.

After his successful audition for Footlights, Laurie met fellow student Emma Thompson, and the two became romantically involved. By 1980, Laurie was the president of Footlights, and Thompson was vice president. Through their relationship, Laurie met Footlights performer and playwright, Stephen Fry. Laurie had been so impressed by Fry's play Latin! that he insisted Thompson introduce the two men. Together, the fast friends wrote the sketch "The Cellar Tapes" with Emma Thompson in 1981, which they entered in the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.
